In both secular and biblical literature, the word witchcraft is usually associated with Satanism, the Occult, and the invoking of supernatural demonic powers. Its prime objective is to dominate and control events, circumstances and people. The two most effective weapons witchcraft uses to achieve its goal are manipulation and intimidation.

The Bible tells us that witchcraft is present in every single human being. In Galatians chapter five Paul the Apostle lists it among the "works of the flesh," meaning the fallen nature inherited from Adam.

Paul goes on to explain that these works of the flesh are the result of living "according to the flesh." This theological term could be summed up as man's attempt to do as he wants, and get what he wants, without submitting to God's Law.
